

Google Data Centers

Location
country
city
state
address

The description of where a place can be found using information such as common words people would describe the place. In terms of Google, there are many of these across the world so they are able provide services anywhere to anyone in the world.

Employee
firstName
lastName
id
department
position
specialization
workSchedule
salary

A person who works on schedule basis at a specific department depending on their position and specialization while also obtaining a salary for what they do on a yearly basis. In terms of Google, this can be as an engineer who has a position of software developer that specializes in Java but there are also many other types of employees who work at Google.

Server
type
purpose
macAddress
ipAddress
maintenanceSchedule
networkType
location

A device that comes in several types depending on their purpose that connects people with services of whoever owns these devices. These devices have a specific network type depending on what they are used for and can also be identified using a unique combination of numbers.